

1 ABSTRACT

2 An information management and synchronous communications system and 3 method facilitates database equilibrium and synchronization with wired, wireless and Web-based 4 systems, user-friendly and efficient generation of computerized menus and reservations for 5 restaurants and other applications that utilize equipment with nonstandard graphical formats, 6 display sizes and/or applications for use in remote data entry, information management and 7 communication with host computer, digital input device or remote pager via standard hardwired 8 connection, the internet, a wireless link or the like.

9